

THE CROW'S WISH

THERE WAS A CROW WHO FELT UNHAPPY WITH HIMSELF. HIS FEATHERS WERE DULL, HIS VOICE WAS HARSH, AND HE WISHED TO BE ADMIRRED LIKE OTHER BIRDS

SIGH. IT FEELS LIKE NO ONE LIKES ME.

In a vast forest filled with many kinds of birds, each with its own colors, voices, and gifts, one bird felt deeply unhappy with itself. This is the story of envy, and the search for true happiness

IF ONLY I WERE A PARROT. THEN EVERYONE WOULD LIKE ME

YOU CAN, MY CHILD - BUT ONLY IF THE PARROT AGREES TO TRADE PLACES WITH YOU

GOD PLEASE, CHANGE ME INTO A PARROT. THEN EVERYONE WILL LIKE ME

Heeding God's words, the crow took flight in search of the parrot

HMM. YOU ADMIRE MY COLORS AND VOICE YES, THESE ARE GOOD QUALITIES BUT THEY ARE NOT THE WHOLE STORY

GOD SAID I CAN CHANGE BUT ONLY IF YOU AGREE, BROTHER WILL YOU LET ME BE LIKE YOU?

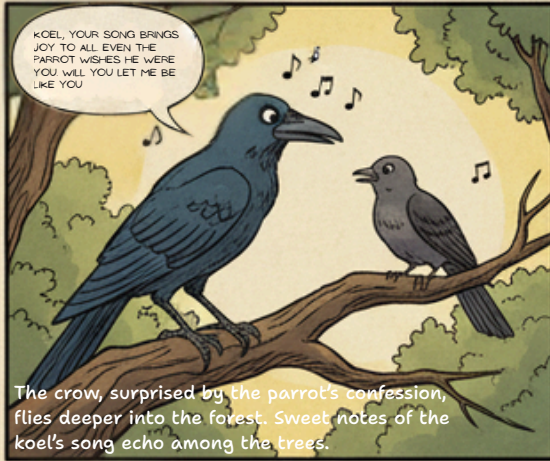

I HAVE MY STRENGTHS, YES. BUT MY LIFE IS NOT FREE. PEOPLE ADMIRE ME, YET THEY KEEP ME CAGED. IF I COULD AVOID THE BURDEN OF MY OWN NEGATIVE TRAITS, I MIGHT WISH TO BE A KOEL, SINGING FREELY IN THE FOREST.

I I CAN'T BELIEVE IT. EVEN YOUR BRIGHTEST FEATHERS ARE CHAINS!

SHAKEN BY THE PARROT'S TRUTH, THE CROW SPREAD HIS WINGS AND SET OFF TO FIND THE KOEL
